We are Grassroots

At nearly 100 years strong, the League of Women Voters is one of the nations most respected community-based grassroots organizations. We are most known for our work in promoting voter engagement and election education, but we also work on local issues ranging from education, environment, health, housing and land use.

We are Nonpartisan

The League does not support nor oppose any candidate for office or political party. Our goal is for every citizen to vote so our elected leaders represent our entire community. We work to connect people with their government.

We study local issues

We provide factual information.

We foster civil dialogue on community issues.

We promote civics education.

We empower voters to make informed choices.

We advocate for change.

We Study Issues

The League selects its issues, from national to local levels, and arrives at its position through research, discussion and member agreement.

We Provide Factual Information

The League publishes its findings on various issues on which it bases its community actions.

We Foster Dialogue on Issues

The League hosts public forums prior to elections for voters to hear from and talk with candidates. It also publishes online voter resources:

We Promote Civics Education

The League works with educators to enrich civic learning through its high quality curriculum material, voter registration drives, and guest speaking.

We Empower Voters to Make Informed Choices

The League provides objective analysis and plain language explanations of ballot measures prior to elections.

We Advocate for Change

The League works to create positive change through working with local community leaders, elected officials and media outlets.
